1. Upon his return from Moscow, Uss, First Secretary of the Soviet Consulate in Tientsin, brought back a strong reprimand for Kurdyukov, Soviet Consul-General in Tientsin. According to A. I. Serebrennikov (2nd Vice Chairman of the Soviet Citizens' Association, Tientsin), a resident agent (unidentified) of VKP(b)* informed Moscow of Kurdyukov's inefficiency. Kurdyukov was blamed for having failed to create patriotic enthusiasm for repatriation and also for having failed to induce a sufficient number of young Soviet technicians to sign up for the first repatriation. The Tientsin repatriation passed almost unnoticed when compared with the first repatriation from Shanghai. Kurdyukov was also reprimanded for being too friendly with Soviet citizens when discussing the repatriation. It is said that he had even advised some of them to wait until later. At any rate, Kurdyukov is now very abrupt when dealing with people and will see prospective repatriates only in large groups.
2. Apparently Uss will handle all matters in connection with the later repatriations. He called a meeting (? in Tientsin) of Soviet officials from Mukden, Tsingtao and Peiping to discuss future repatriations. Mukden representatives were Oleinikovskiy, Kunin and Demidov. Ielchitsky was the Tsingtao representative. Tichvinsky, who should have come from Peiping, was conspicuously absent.
